

Snow Plowing Action Plan

Date of storm: March 4-5, 2013

Advisories: WINTER STORM WARNINGS UNTIL MIDNIGHT, TUESDAY MARCH 5, 2013

Estimated time of snowfall: 2am Tuesday Morning Estimated End Time: 12am Wednesday Morning

Anticipated Type of Snow Precipitation: Snow

Estimated Potential Accumulation: North=7-12" Central= 7-12" South 5=10"

Temperature Range: 28-33° F (20-28 ° F with wind chill)

Ground Temperature: 15° F

Winds: Northeast 5-10

	North	Central	South
Ice Melt Run
Start Time:	5 am	5 am	5 am
Ice Melt Run
Completion Time:	On Going	On Going	On Going
Snow Plowing
Start Time:	12 noon	12 noon	12 noon
Snow Plowing
Estimated Completion Time:	4 am	4 am	4 am
Snow Plowing
Completion Time:	TBD	TBD	TBD

Additional Notes:

Our expected start time has been pushed back to 12 noon on Wednesday due to the change in dynamics of the storm. At this time we are expecting anywhere between 5-12 inches of snow. The heaviest of snow will not be falling from around 2pm-6pm Tuesday afternoon. We are expecting to have everything cleared by 4 am Wednesday Morning. All preapproved job sites will be continuously plowed to ensure that they remain as clear and safe as possible.

We highly recommend that you do any necessary traveling tonight as travel on Tuesday will be extremely difficult. Many schools have already been closed in anticipation of this snowstorm.

We will attempt to continuously update you throughout this storm. For any questions please contact Carlos Tapia at 224-430-6830, or Alberto Tapia at 847-877-1075.